HAYSELDEN SAYS HOTEL BUILDING ON EAST SIDE PROGRESSING ON NEW PLAN

Asks Chamber of Commerce for Little More Time for Glendale Advancement Association to Try Idea

SECRETARY RHOADES GIVES NOTICE

Meeting Decides to Take No Action Until Hotel Committee Has Had Time to Work Out Its Plans

That the hotel committee of the Glendale Advancement association is working on a new plan with regard to the construction of the hotel at the corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway, was the assertion made at the meeting of the chamber of commerce directors by Director P. J. Hayseiden Tuesday noon. He said that all connection with Mr. Tremain of Los Angeles has been severed and that those who are being dealt with at this time are entirely new to this hotel proposition.

"We cannot wait much longer on the present hotel proposition," said Secretary Rhoades. "There is a crying need for a hotel in Glendale. We have waited on this matter for a long time. There are other men interested who are willing to go right ahead in the construction of a hotel in Glendale."

SHRINE CLUB TO ENTERTAIN KIDS THIS EVENING

All Members of Order Invited to Participate in the Festivities

All Shriners and their families
whether members of the Shrine club or not, are invited to the annual Christmas party of the club.
There will be no charge.

The annual Christmas party
given by the Shrine club of Glendale for the Shriners' kiddies, their mamas and papas, will be held at the Pearl Keller hall, 109-A North Brand boulevard, Wednesday evening, December 27, at 8 o'clock.

There will be two fine, large
Christmas trees beautifully trimmed that will appeal to the youngsters as well as to all of the grown-ups.

Santa Claus will be on hand to distribute candy and other gifts to the children and possibly some to their parents, too.

A very entertaining Christmas
program has been prepared to entertain those present. Refreshments will be served during the evening.

CITY TREASURER OF EAGLE ROCK IS RECOVERING

W. J. Cook Reported to Be Improving at Glendale Sanitarium

That W. J. Cook, Eagle Rock
city treasurer, who took ill suddenly last week with a severe attack of the heart, is somewhat improving at the Glendale Sanitarium
is the word received here this morning.

Mr. Cook was at work at the city hall when overcome by the attack and was removed to his home
at once at 405 East Hill avenue.
Dr. Carl H. Phinney has been in attendance. Mr. Cook is thought to have safely passed the critical point in his illness.

THURSDAY BIBLE CLASS TO MEET TOMORROW

Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock
the Thursday Morning Bible Class
for women will meet at the Presbyterian Church. Mrs. A. L. Dennis of Los Angeles is the teacher.
The class is unsectarian and undenominational and is open to the women of all churches or of no church. Many women of Glendale have been availing themselves of the privilege of attending this class which meets for one hour
each Thursday morning.

HORSE THIEVES HERE
An attempt was made by three Mexicans to steal a horse from the stable of the Los Angeles Basket
company, 1295 Los Angeles street, at 11:30 o'clock last night. While in the act they were discovered by Watchman Ed O'Leary, who reported
the matter to the police and chased the Mexicans away. A search of the neighborhood was made, but the Mexicans could not be found.

SMITH'S BIKE STOLEN
A bicycle belonging to E. L.
Smith, 504 Fairmont avenue, was stolen from his rear yard at 8:30 o'clock last night. The matter was reported to the police but the missing bike has not been located.

WARREN BARTLETT'S PARENTS WANTED AT POSTOFFICE

As a souvenir of the mail damaged by the acid thrown in the package chute last week
by the man Barron, who is now under observation in the psychopathic ward of the county hospital to determine
his sanity if possible, is a beautiful photograph with an inscription on the back which is the only clue to its identity,
the outer wrapper having been
so burned as to destroy the address. The postoffice officials are therefore asking "the justly proud mamma or papa of Warren Stevens Bartlett," to call at the office and claim it.
Postmaster Jackson expects to attend a hearing on the Barron case tomorrow in Los Angeles. If found sane, he will be tried by federal authorities.

CITY FLOAT IS PREPARED FOR FLOWERS

Foundation Is Completed
Excepting for the Final Decorations

VOLUNTEERS CALLED

L. W. Chobe, Designer,
Wants Help to Place
Blossoms in Place

Such good progress has been made on the Glendale float to be entered in the Pasadena Rose Tournament that its foundation is now practically ready for the coat of flowers it is to receive. It would not be fair to give away the design but the statement can be made that it will be a marked departure from previous entries and if carried out as conceived should be beautiful and unique.

It will call for an immense amount of labor in preparing and placing of flowers and L. W. Chobe, who is creating it, is calling for volunteers December 31 to help with the work as a civic duty. The more candidates who present themselves the better will he be pleased.

PRINTERS' UNION SHOW PROSPERITY OF COUNTRY

New I. T. U. Hospital
Building Is Being Rushed to Completion

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 27.—Fairly accurate estimates of the prosperity
prevailing in the United States
may be based on the amount of activity in the printing trades. Figures given out by J. W. Hays, secretary-treasurer of the International Typographical Union of North America, show an unusual gain in earnings by members over last year and also progressive gains
from month to month this season.

In September, earnings of members totalled $9,744,881; in October, $10,080,004, and in November, $10,464,911. Since May 1, 1921, the typographical union has collected for expenditure in the struggle for the 44-hour week, $1,498,204.55,
and in the same period has expended $12,247,913.15. This struggle has had to do with members
employed in commercial printing
establishments, not on newspapers.

REV. TINNING TO HAVE CHARGE OF PRAYER MEETING

Rev. Louis Tinning, the assistant pastor, will have charge of the prayer meeting at the Presbyterian Church at 7:30 tonight. This service is of special interest because of its being the last prayer service of the year. The subject will be "Reviewing the Past, Previewing
the Future." At the conclusion of the prayer meeting there will be a short "Get Acquainted Hour" and light refreshments will be served.
A cordial invitation is extended to all to be present. In past years
this service has been most stimulating and helpful and many have availed themselves of the privilege of attending.

AWAIT GARBAGE WAGONS
Residents of West Doran street
are wondering if the city garbage collection has ceased altogether. It is reported that for more than a week no garbage has been collected anywhere along the street. Cans
full and overflowing line the curb.
Paul Vissman, sanitary inspector,
assigned the delay to the holidays.

2,000 AUDITORIUM HIGH PLANT PLANS FOR OPENING SEPTEMBER 1 APPROVED

Trustees Meet With Architect and Take Definite Action on Concrete Outline of Institution

AUSTIN PLEDGES OPENING DATE

All School Activities Excepting Athletic and Manual Arts Are Provided for Under New Design

Plans for a high school plant equipped with an auditorium accommodating 2000, to be ready for September
first, bids to be called for immediately, resulted at the meeting of the board of trustees of the high school last night, with John C. Austin, architect, and his assistant, Frederick Ashley.

The completed plans for the buildings to be erected on the new high school site at Broadway and Verdugo were examined and adopted by a formal resolution. Another resolution was adopted to publish the first advertisement for bids Tuesday, January 2, the bids to be opened at 2 o'clock on Thursday, January 25, provided the plans receive the approval of County Superintendent Keppel before January 2, the law requiring that such approval must first be had.

Members expressed their satisfaction with the plans and were encouraged by Mr. Austin to believe that the work could be so pushed that the buildings would be ready for use by next September.

As the outer walls and corridors
are of reinforced concrete it will be slower than some other forms
of construction but the board members hope the architect is justified
in his promises.

The plans call for a large building, the central feature of which will be an auditorium with a seating capacity of 2000. In front of this will be a group of rooms for administrative purposes on the first floor. On the west side of the auditorium will be a study

ORDER YOUR ADVERTISING SPACE AND EXTRA COPIES OF THE NEW YEAR EDITION

We take this opportunity of telling you of our special
New Year's edition of the Glendale Daily Press, giving an analytic survey of our city—the first attempted in its history.

It will tell you of the phenomenal growth of Glendale—the reason for the growth and facts to show that the growth is bound to continue. Comparison is made with cities of the same size throughout the United States, proving that in a great many instances Glendale's growth in the past two years was as great as ten years
of their growth.

While this edition will make you proud of our city,
all figures are based on actual facts. Everyone should send one or more of these papers to eastern friends and let them learn of our wonderful city.

As an advertising medium, this edition will be a business getter. Each page will carry in addition to ads, statistics showing growth.

Richard L. Rowe, the leading specialist of the United States in municipal surveys, has been brought to Glendale by us to prepare this survey and its value to our city will be immense.

We expect a big demand for advertising space and would recommend that you make reservations at once for representation in it. It will go everywhere. Order your extra papers that we may print enough copies to meet all demands. We are planning on printing and distributing at least 8000 of these papers, which will mean at least 85,000 readers. A great many papers will be mailed to eastern friends by our subscribers. There will be no increase in rates. Papers already wrapped for mailing may be procured at our office.

A PUBLICITY COMMITTEE FOR THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The chamber of commerce has appointed a publicity
committee on its affairs.

The Glendale Daily Press welcomes its action.
It has no desire to print, at any time, utterances of any member of the chamber of commerce which are not in line with determinative action by the organization as a whole.

Under the previous open publicity system, considerable matter was printed which was unavoidable publicity. That is, the Glendale Daily Press could not,
under the system, refuse publication to any matter from
the individuals of the directing heads, lest it be accused of partiality, conducting a system of direction which is apart from its policy.

The Glendale chamber of commerce is a private organization of citizens. It has a right to exercise privacy regarding all its affairs. For the good it may accomplish it will be remembered, and appreciated.

The Glendale Daily Press feels relieved since it will no longer be necessary to give space to publicity on any project which has not the entire organization behind it.

Hollister Gives Thanks for the Community Aid

By V. M. HOLLISTER
President Community Service
of Glendale

That the first Community
Christmas Tree was so great a success is due to the fact that the citizens of Glendale gave such hearty co-operation and enthusiastic support to the project. This is the first community activity sponsored by Community Service of Glendale, although initiated and turned over to Community Service by the Kiwanis club. The officers of Community Service wish to express their most sincere appreciation and thanks to all assisting in any way in making the affair a success, and to especially thank the following officials, organizations and citizens who gave so generously of their time and ability:

City council, fire department,
police department, high school
trustees, Glendale Press, Glendale News, Glendale Music
company, Bentley-Sheehanan
Lumber company, Roberts &
Ehols, Glendale Typewriter
company, Boy Scouts, Kiwanis club, Exchange club, Rotary club, Knights of Columbus,
chamber of commerce, American Legion, Glendale's
churches, the many organizations that appointed committees, Colonel James W. Ever-ington, L. W. Chobe, David
Black, Harry Girard, Mrs. W.
Q. Widdows, Mrs. Harry M.
Mullin, and all who participated in the program, Willard
Roberts, Mrs. Wm. Hunter, all
Santa Clauses, Mrs. E. S. Mc-Kee and assistants, Clyde St.
Clair and assistants, Mr. Abbott.

With best wishes for the New Year.

COMMUNITY XMAS AT LA CRESCENTA IS SUCCESS

24 Baskets and Many Plants Distributed
Among Sick

LA CRESCENTA, Dec. 26.—The community Christmas celebration closed Saturday, when 24 cheerful baskets and many plants and boxes
of flowers were distributed among the sick of the valley. The committee in charge of this work included
Mrs. M. A. Wagner, Mrs. F. K. Czer-niski, Mrs. C. Wagner, Mrs. S. B.
Young, Mrs. B. Erickson and C. R.
Pool.

POSTOFFICE AT HIGH IS STILL A BUSY PLACE

In spite of the fact that Christmas is past the terminal station
in the boys' gym at the high school is still doing a good business. Up to date 25,000 packages have been delivered from there to Glendale
and the receipts are still keeping up, Tuesday being one of the biggest days thus far.

Mr. Hunt, who is in charge, says
because of the abundance of room
and the manner in which the work
was systematized, the handling of mail has worked like a charm. The high school and high school boys
have worked with the greatest pep
and enthusiasm and have shown unexpected proficiency. Postmaster Jackson is providing as a prize for the boy who shows the greatest efficiency a beautiful pearl
handled pocket knife in a leather case. This will be awarded when the receipts drop off so that the station can be closed, which will probably not be until the last of the week.

M'GROARTY'S ARE SAD OVER LOSS OF KEEPSAKES

Assistant Secretary Sanders,
who visited the poet, J. S. McGroarty,
on Tuesday, found that he and Mrs. McGroarty had secured an asylum in a small house belonging to a neighbor at the foot of the mountain on which they have been making their home. Both are showing courage though their loss
is the more painful because so much that was destroyed were curios and keepsakes from all parts of the world, manuscripts and treasures that cannot be replaced.

QUIET SESSION FOR CITY DADS

Cornwell & Henderson were granted an extension of 45 days in the improving of Palmer avenue.
Map of Tract No. 5851 was adopted.

A resolution was adopted ordering the paying of $5 per year for a permit to run a pipe line under the Pacific Electric tracks at Justin avenue.

City attorney and city engineer
were instructed to draw up specifications for the improving of Louise street between Lexington and Doran.

CITY COUNCIL AUTHORIZES PURCHASE OF 33 ACRES IN NORTHWEST FOR $66,000

City Appraisal Committee Says It Is Worth Now
$75,000; Mayor Authorized to Complete
Contract to Secure Property

$16,500 IS FIRST PAYMENT

Estimated Expense to Glendale Under Agreement
During Present Fiscal Year Is a Total of $18,243.50

The contract for the purchase of 33 acres of land in the northwest section of the city for $66,000 was approved by the city council at its meeting Tuesday night and the mayor
was authorized to execute said contract, thereby securing
this land for the city.

An appraisal of the property by a committee appointed by the council sets the present value of the property at $75,000.

The resolution adopted and the letter from the appraisal committee are as follows:

Resolved by the council of the City of Glendale that the contract
dated December 9, 1922, between
J. D. Radcliff and Bertha M. Radcliff, his wife, as parties of the first part and the City of Glendale
as parties of the second part for the sale to said city by said parties of the first part, of that certain real property in the county of Los Angeles described as follows:
Lots four, five and six in block
36 of the subdivision of the Rancho Providencia and Scott Tract as per map thereof recorded in book 48
page 47 et seq. Miscellaneous records of said county, for the sum of $66,000 payable $16,500 on execution of this agreement; $16,500
on or before December 9, 1924;
$16,500 on or before December 9,
1925; and $16,500 on or before December 9, 1926, is hereby approved and the mayor is hereby directed to execute said contract in the name and in behalf of the City of Glendale, and the City Clerk is hereby directed to attest said contract and affix the city seal there-
to.

This council hereby estimates
that the expense to be incurred by the City of Glendale under said contract during the present fiscal year is the sum of $18,243.50.

In response to your request the undersigned committee inspected
property on the Southern Pacific railway at the foot of Grand View avenue described as lots four, five
and six, block 36 Rancho Providencia
and Scott tract.

It is our opinion that a reasonable value of said property at the present time is $75,000.

If at any time you desire to go into further details as to how we arrived at this figure we will be glad to submit to you a sketch and
the conclusions that we came to.

Mysterious Shots Stir Glendaleans

Glendaleans living in the region of Elk and Brand were startled last night at about 10 o'clock by the firing of a number of shots near that intersection by a person whose identity has not been learned. Mrs.
Johnson, 108 West Elk, reported
the matter to the police and Officer
Kerns answered the call, but although the neighborhood was searched, no one could be found.

P. E. TRACKS ARE BEING LOWERED RAPIDLY

Southbound Cars Now
Cross Over to the East
Track at Colorado

The Pacific Electric company is making rapid progress in track lowering. Southbound cars now
cross over to the east track at Colorado and then back to their own side at Garfield avenue. The west track between those two points is entirely torn up and all the rails
and old ties will have been removing the right-of-way, beginning at the south end of the stretch and a very few days will be required to complete this work and the laying of the new track at grade. It is expected that before January
closes both tracks will be in operation at the highway level and it will not take long to complete the paving of the entire right-of-way.

SOU. CALIF. GAS CO. OUTGROWS NEW BUILDING

Before Building Started
Foundation Is Changed
to Permit Third Story

Things are doing on North Maryland in a business way. The foundations of the new building of the Southern California Gas company
at 122-28 have been reinforced to insure strength to support a 3-story building which it is figured will be needed for its business in this district which is growing by leaps and bounds.

The structure is of brick and concrete and its ground floor space is about four times that of the present
gas office on West Broadway. It is promised for occupancy in March and will be ready none too soon as the desks of clerks are jammed together as close as they can be placed in the present offices.

Mr. Cheatham, manager of the gas office, says the business grew 38 percent last year and present growth is as great. Its normal increase before that had been 32 percent. It now has 12,000 consumers and all but 1300 in the Burbank district are Glendaleans. The increase, he says, is at the rate of 300 connections a month and that means, of course, 300 families.

Gas pipes are now being laid in Verdugo Woodlands, beginning at the north end of Glorieta street,
and if all goes well should be connected and ready for use by consumers in about two weeks. The company serves Flintridge and the development in between has expected to have many patrons and demonstrate the need of a large building.

Glendale now uses natural gas
entirely from the Midway fields
whose main pipe line traverses this city. Any surplus left in the pipes goes to Los Angeles to be mixed with the manufactured gas and increase the heat units. Natural gas,
he explained, has 1000 B. T. U.
(British thermal units) or one-
third more than the manufactured product and this is Glendale's good fortune. Rates, he explained, depend on the cost of transmission and the cost is affected by the inevitable leakage. In Glendale because of the nearness of the main line this leakage is at the minimum.
In Redondo, because gas has to be carried so far, the rate is about 50 percent higher than ours.

AUTO ACCIDENTS

Four automobile accidents were reported to the Glendale police department yesterday. Automobiles driven by J. W. Miller, 1417 Central and Dorothy W. Lewis of Torrance, collided at the corner of Colorado and Central at 6:30 o'clock Monday night. Little damage was done.

Gatano Goto, 314 West Park, and Guy Stevens of Los Angeles, were driving machines that came together on Los Feliz road at 12 o'clock, Tuesday. No one was injured.

Peter Olivar, of Los Angeles, was driving a machine that collided
with a car operated by George Newhouse, 203 North Cedar street,
the accident taking place at the corner of Brand and Broadway at 1 o'clock, Tuesday. The damage was slight.

Another accident occurred when a machine driven by E. L. De Remer of San Fernando, ran into a motorcycle on which James R. Ver-dier of Los Angeles was riding, the accident taking place at the corner of Los Feliz and San Fernando.
Mr. Verdier was slightly injured and his motor was considerably damaged.

GLENDALÉ DAILY PRESS READERS VOTE AGAINST ANNEXATION BY PHONE

Some Admit They Were Interested in Propaganda, But Soon Saw Through the Proposition and Are Now Strongly in Favor of Home Rule

While it is reported in the Los Angeles Examiner that 1500 have signed the petition for an annexation election, the Glendale Daily Press has been able to detect, in its canvass of its readers, but a scattered dozen who would vote for annexation. Instead it has reported the views of not less than a hundred who have decided views against any such proposition, who resent the idea of calling an election.

Since the reports on annexation in the Los Angeles newspapers have been more or less colored by desire, it is inevitable that the statements are lacking in accuracy, indicated particularly by the statement that 2500 signatures will be required to call an election. Not only 2500 signatures but 5000 approximately would be required. Of any 5000 acquired to a petition, careful scrutiny would result in many discards.

Views of a few of our readers are not so numerous today, because of the holidays. But they are unanimous today.

Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Camerer, 319 West Garfield avenue: "We are opposed to annexation of Glendale to Los Angeles as we feel that it is much better for Glendale to remain an independent city. We have nothing against Los Angeles but believe that the way Glendale is growing and progressing that it is able to stand on its own feet."

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Pratt, 356 Myrtle street: "We are against annexation. We cannot see where Glendale would get any benefit by annexation to Los Angeles and we would also lose our identity as a city."

Mrs. C. E. Russell, 332 North Kenwood street: "We will certainly fight annexation. We are satisfied with Glendale as it is. We lived in Los Angeles at one time several years ago and do not want to go back again. Glendale has shown that she can take care of herself. There is nothing that can equal the growth of Glendale anywhere. Why put ourselves into a similar position as Hollywood or Van Nuys?"

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Stofft, 457 Stocker street: "We are decidedly opposed to annexation as we cannot see where Glendale would be benefitted by consolidating with Los Angeles. Even if Glendale would annex we would have no representation in the Los Angeles city council, and if we are to be benefitted we must have a voice in the council."

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Fuelscher, 622 North Isabel street: "We are not in favor of annexation. We do not think that it would help Glendale at all. This city is large enough to take care of itself."

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Priaulx, 128 West Park avenue: "We are not in favor of annexing Glendale to Los Angeles as we cannot see any advantages to be gained by such a move. It does not seem to be a wise thing to do."

K. OF P. LODGE MRS. RAY WILSON TO HOLD BIG CEREMONY WINS FINE NEW RANGE

The regular meeting of the K. of P. Lodge held Tuesday evening was an uneventful session but next Tuesday's meeting will be a big affair, nothing less than a joint installation of officers of the lodge and of La Halla Temple, Pythian Sisters, of this city, and likewise a combined installation for the Van Nuys lodge and its Pythian Sisters organization. The impressive exercises will be followed by an entertainment program and a banquet.

No woman is satisfied with herself until she has put it all over her neighbor in some way.

Vice President Sisson of Guaranty Trust Tells of Situation

EDITOR'S NOTE: Francis H. Sisson, vice-president of the Guaranty Trust company of New York City, has written at the request of the United Press, a statement of the business situation in the United States as the old year passes and 1923 dawns. Sisson is a leader of the banking world and his views are entitled to careful consideration.

By FRANCIS H. SISSON
Vice-President Guaranty Trust Company of New York

(Written for the United Press.)
It is striking evidence of the great resilience of this nation that, in spite of the seriously adverse influences which persisted in 1922, the closing months of the year disclosed a situation in general very materially improved, as compared with conditions 12 months prior. Since the beginning of 1922 the general level of prices has been advancing and the volume of industrial output has been increasing. There has been marked improvement in the iron and steel industry, which is now employed at about 80 per cent of capacity. All of the textile industries are now very active and the automobile manufacturers have had a very prosperous year. Unemployment throughout the country has ceased to be a serious problem; in fact, there is a marked shortage of common labor.

After a year of bountiful crops, improving prices, and increasing industrial activity, the outlook for the future may be considered distinctly favorable. In any event, the definite basis for continued prosperity now exists, although it must be admitted that the road ahead is by no means free from uncertainties and obstructions.

A well sustained volume of foreign trade, for example, is an important element in a satisfactory economic situation in the United States, and there is ample cause for apprehension over the present financial and economic difficulties in Europe, for which a widely held opinion is that a solution is still to be found. A serious reaction would certainly result in America if the great continental markets were thrown into further disorganization.

The President's Declaration
President Harding has recently declared that the nation is "solvent financially, sound economically, unrivaled in genius, unexcelled in industry, resolute in determination and unwavering in faith." If the basic economic and financial factors can be wisely protected and these human qualities can be assured free play, there need be no interruption to the continued progress of the United States towards prosperity.

It would be folly, however, not to recognize that such protection and freedom can by no means be taken for granted, but demand an intelligent initiative and a sustained courage on the part of the leaders and majority of the people if they are to be assured. The problems in industry, finance and the international relations which confront the nation are many and difficult and will severely test its capacity to manage its affairs with wisdom. There is evidently a tendency to experiment with the theories of finance and administration which have been often discredited by past experience and unless this tendency can be controlled, our present fortunate position may be seriously compromised.

The favorable features in the present situation in the United States, however, would seem definitely to outweigh the unfavorable ones, and there is reason to entertain the prospect of excellent business conditions for the first six months of 1923 at least, and if the possible difficulties to which reference has been made can be successfully overcome, the coming year should place the nation in a stronger economic and financial position than ever before. Its situation may be deemed favorable indeed, when compared with that of most great countries in the world today, where far heavier burdens exist and far more harassing and critical problems now confront their peoples.

BUILDING PERMITS

The following building permits were issued up to noon today:
Stevens Construction Company, 1810 North Pacific, 5 rooms and garage, $4,500.

PLANS FOR HOMES BY LOW BUILDING CO. OFFERED

Handsome Book of Blue Prints Is Ready for Distribution

As a special inducement for prospective home-builders to call at their office, a very handsome booklet containing twelve blue print floor plans of inexpensive homes is being distributed by the Low Building company, at 612 East Broadway. This booklet embodies elaborate color plans showing many ready-cut homes in actual color and each of the homes is accompanied by a blueprint floor plan and complete specifications. The booklet is believed to be the most beautifully produced work of its kind ever made available for free distribution and the Low Building company feels fortunate in being able to secure a limited number for distribution in Glendale. The booklet shows several 4 and 5 room houses ranging in price from $1500 to $3500. Every home illustrated in the booklet has been erected either in Glendale or in Los Angeles and can be inspected by prospective builders.

In addition to the free distribution of this very interesting booklet of plans the Low Building company also has available a 144 page book of designs containing 100 inexpensive house plans. The publishers of the book paid more than $25,000 to produce the volume but by printing it in large quantities have been able to price the book at 50 cents per copy, which is considerably less than the actual cost of production per copy.

NAZARENE MISSION HAS GREAT DAY ON SUNDAY

Sunday proved to be a great day at the Nazarene mission.

The Sunday school had a good attendance and this was followed by the Christmas sermon, which was preached by Rev. L. E. Swaney of Tujunga, who took for his subject "An Unique Christmas Gift."

The text was John 3:16, "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." It was one of the most powerful sermons on this text the worshippers ever listened to.

The first point brought out by Rev. Swaney was, "This gift is unique in its origin; it originated in the heart of God. It is the transcript of the divine mind. It is the duplicate of infinite wisdom."

The second point brought out by Rev. Swaney was, "It is unique in its design. This gift was made to reconcile heaven and earth."

The third point brought out was this, "It is unique in its scope—it expands all space and takes all time, and includes every individual of the fallen race."

Fourth: "It is unique in its nature. It incarnates itself in lives of men and women and boys and girls."

The fifth point was: "It is unique in its effect. First, it sent the angels from heaven to sing on the Judean hills, 'Peace on earth, good will to men.' It drew the wise men from the East to see Him who was born 'King of the Jews.'"

Sixth: "It is unique in its appearance. We read in the 53rd chapter of the Prophet Isaiah, 'There is no beauty that we should desire him.'"

Seventh: "It is unique in its duration."

Eighth: "It is unique in its preservation."

The following announcement is made in regard to meetings this week.

Tuesday evening, prayer meeting; Rev. Swaney will speak.

Wednesday evening, the Christmas program will be given.

Thursday and Friday evenings there will be services, Rev. Swaney speaking each evening.

All are invited to attend the services. The location of the Mission is 1002 South Glendale avenue.

On Christmas Day baptismal services were held at Seal Beach. A number of new converts were baptized. It was a great service and drew all closer to the Lord.

OH YOU CIDER FROM VERDUGO ROAD EMPORIUM

"Oh, you cider!"
Shortly after noon, Saturday, Mr. Sterns of Sterns' fruit emporium, 2041 North Verdugo road, came into the Daily Press office juggling a great big keg of that grape-apple cider that "makes a fellow love his wife."

You can't speak of the cider Sterns makes in the same breath with most cider you get around this "neck of the woods." It is the genuine article. Nothing out of the way, y'understand. Just good! With the keg Sterns came lugging, also, that ever-present smile and "freshest" banter. It you've ever seen Sterns you know what that means. That cider was sure yummum. The way the boys—and girls—pounced on that 'ere keg was a caution. Nef sed.

Pacific-Southwest Review

By D. H. SMITH

Grand Boulevard Branch Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank

The growing dependence of the various districts of the Pacific-Southwest is well illustrated by a survey of the trade between Arizona and that portion of California south from Fresno which is ordinarily considered within territory.

Arizona is now consuming approximately 500,000 barrels of oil, California 1,000,000 and the United States 10,000,000. Southern California produces a month's supply of 500,000 board feet of lumber, mine timbers, shipped to Los Angeles Harbor, and many thousands of car loads of canned goods and import articles of vegetable, meat, etc., either produced in Arizona or shipped through Southern California.

Reciprocal nature of this trade is illustrated by the fact that 15 per cent of the California normally originates in Arizona. We are also importing a variety of considerable quantities of cotton, wool, alfalfa, etc.

Monthly trade between two sections of the Pacific coast now normally averages as $10,000,000. That it is growing is evidenced by the fact that Southern California is a market for the products of Arizona and a logical center from which Arizona

TUESDAY CLUB CHILD PARTY IS SUCCESS

Clever Program is Given by Pupils of the Keller School

The children's part given by the Tuesday Afternoon club at the Keller studio was well attended, particularly by the variety program given by children was much enjoyed by the mothers and by the child listeners. It included an Indian dance by Julia Pelley, picturesquely costumed, a Pierrot dance by Katherine Sonntag, and a winter dance by Helen Rosenberg, all pupils of the Keller school. There was an unusual piano duet by Katherine and Margaret Dotsen and solo numbers by each, one being an original composition. A clever pantomime was Jane Piercy's contribution. Readings by Evelyn Kent and Margaret Campbell showed distinct progress since they first came before the footlights. Robert Glen Moore, the only boy on the program, gave a piano selection. Grand march followed the program during which the children received cornucopias of ice cream and bought their gifts for poor children to the feet of two beautiful Christmas trees which stood at either side of the stage.

'HORNELET NEST' IS BEEHIVE OF ACTIVITY

A double Christmas celebration started Christmas Eve at the "Hornelet Nest," 1445 Valley View Road, residence of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Horne and children, Jimmy and June, and lasted until late Christmas night. After the decorating of a large tree and the placing of the gifts at 4 a. m. Mr. Horne completed his yearly poem, and at 8 o'clock the entire family living in Glendale arrived by automobile and started the celebration by the reading of the poem, which had been strung by ribbons across the room, by J. Landers Stevens. Later this was cut down by Mrs. Horne, a custom that has taken place each Christmas since the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Horne, and which is kept as a treasure. Over a hundred presents were then distributed, these having been placed by the guests under the tree.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon, after a sumptuous turkey dinner at the Horne residence, the entire family adjourned to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carrere, 1151 North Louise street, who had also entertained some of the guests at dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Carrere and as their honor guests John Carrere of Sacramento, and George Carrere and son of Fresno.

The following guests and members of the families were present at both celebrations: Mr. and Mrs. T. Dobson, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Wallace, Harry Woodthorpe, Mr. and Mrs. J. Landers Stevens and sons, Jack, Jr., and George; Mrs. Hannah Stevens, mother of J. Landers Stevens; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carrere, John Carrere, Elizabeth Plummer, Mrs. Fannie Stockbridge, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hilton, Jack Lavalle and daughter Audrey, Mr. and Mrs. James Horne and Jimmy and June Horne.

YOUNG PRINTERS TO FIND HAVEN WHEN ILL

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO., Dec. 27.—Physical wrecks among younger printers in future will find a haven in the Union. Printers Home here as well as those grown aged at case and machine. Quarrying of stone for a new hospital building has been started and construction work will be rushed.

Sufferers from locomotor ataxia, cancer and various forms of paralysis will be admitted to the home when the hospital is completed. Only printers suffering from contagious diseases will be barred.

Since the establishment of the home in 1892 members of the union afflicted with ailments calculated to make them helpless have been denied admission to the Printers Home. Tuberculosis, a disease to which printers are peculiarly susceptible, was recognized as a prime enemy before 1897 and in that year a sanatorium was erected at the home.

Recently the board of trustees, according to J. W. Hays, secretary-treasurer of the International Typographical Union, reached the conclusion that it was unfair to deny aid of the home to printers disabled by disease, who had for years contributed to the support of the home. Money being available the hospital project was undertaken.

Situated at a high and salubrious altitude, amidst beautiful and cheerful scenery, the new hospital will form an ideal retreat for unfortunate members of the Typographical Union.

CAMERERS HAVE BIG FAMILY XMAS PARTY

Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Camerer of 319 West Garfield avenue entertained with a family dinner party at 2 o'clock Christmas day. Their home was beautifully decorated with potted flowers, greenery, roses and holly. An attractively decorated Christmas tree formed the centerpiece for the dining table. Around the tree were arranged the gifts, from each of which was a ribbon leading to the various place cards. Covers were laid for eleven, including Mrs. Cordelia Augustus, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pence of Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rawson of La Habra, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Stratton of 216 West Garfield avenue, Mrs. Nell Reynolds and Miss Tynes, Dr. and Mrs. Camerer.

During and following the dinner two Christmas piles of gifts, containing both humorous and useful articles, were opened. These had been brought by the Tynes sisters and Mrs. Augustus and also Mr. and Mrs. Stratton. The singing of Christmas carols was then enjoyed. Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. C. B. Camerer were unable to spend Christmas with the former's parents as the ship on which he is stationed was ordered to Mare Island Navy Yard several weeks ago.

TOM MIX AT THE GLENDALE TODAY

Like the corking good actor and athlete that he is, Tom Mix, the William Fox star, never fails to resort to what is known in the prize ring and on the baseball field as "a change of pace" to make sure of the success of every one of his pictures. This pleasant and necessary change of pace is especially noticeable in his latest Fox production, "The Fighting Streak," which opens at the Glendale theatre to night, and is to be found not only in his own characterization and acting, but in the thread of the story itself and in the locale. Nevertheless, it is a Western picture in every part of it—refreshing and new, yet containing all of typical speed and daredevil action, thrills and stunts for which Mix is famous.

In "The Fighting Streak" splendid use is made of the peaks and plateaus of the Rocky Mountains. To make sure that he is abiding by his creed of "fast and furious" new all the time, Mix even goes so far as to stage one of the big minutes of the picture in a barber shop. The story is worked up in steady crescendo to a smashing good climax with a new and surprising twist to it that cannot but please everybody.

Not in some time has a motion picture come to Glendale with as distinguished a cast as "The Face in the Fog," the attraction at the T. D. and L. theatre today.

Playing the leading role is Lionel Barrymore, brother of the famous John and Ethel and one of the most talented and best known players on the American stage and screen. Screen-goers will remember with pleasure Mr. Barrymore's splendid work in "The Copperhead" and "Boomerang." In "The Face in the Fog" Mr. Barrymore has the role of "Boston Blackie," one of the favorite crook characters of fiction.

Seena Owen, the blonde star, always a welcome figure on the screen, plays the chief feminine role opposite Mr. Barrymore, that of an expatriated Russian princess, Mary McLaren, former Universal star and last seen as leading woman for Wallace Reid in "Across the Continent," has the sympathetic part of "Mary," wife of "Boston Blackie."

The suave manner of screen heroines, Lowell Sherman, descends for the time being his accustomed role of "heavy" and in "The Face in the Fog" is seen as the ally of the hero. Taking his place as villain, who created the role in the New York production of "The Hairy Ape," Eugene O'Neill's sensational drama.

EXTRA! EXTRA! FULL TEXT OF KU KLUX KLAN CODE

Ayak?—Are you a Klansman?
Kia—Klansman I am.
Nykar—Name your klan and realm.
Pag—Password and grip.
Kigy—Klansman, I greet you.
Yitab—Yours in the sacred unfailing bond.
Hayfs?—How are you fixed for sheets?
Hac?—Have a cigar?
Deld—Don't care if I do.
Imho?—Is my hood on straight?
Iarwm—It's all right with me.
Gam—Got a match?
Hkwlyh—Hey, Kookoo, where is your horse?

Idylvlf—I dunno; your bed-spread looks very familiar.
Hysab?—Haven't I seen you some place before?
Wdgfrkt?—Where do we go from here, kleegee?
Ppft (pronounced as in fire crackler)—Please pass the tar.
Wrtllsydwswin? (Pronounced with Slovakian accent)—Who was that lady I saw you walking down the street with last night?
Dyoabb?—Do you owe any back dues, brother?
Aiaslafittu—Am I as silly looking as I feel in this uniform?
Whdyliaw?—Well, kleege, how do you like night work?
Oss—Oh, so so.
Kluntualw—Klansmen, let us

WEDLOCKED—When Is a Gift Not a Gift? Ask Annie.

now take up anonymous letter writing.

Ataeoo?—Are there any errors or omissions?
Bikimtrbaapof—Brother kleege, I move that the report be accepted and placed on file.

Attifatum—All those in favor signify in the usual manner.

SV—So voted.

Tkwuwhonbamamcam — The Klan will now take up under the head of new business a mass attack on a one-armed man.

Itaakwhnptsdmtwslapao — If there are any klansmen who have not paid for the sheeting distributed last month they will step forward and pay at once.

Dytwhachht?—Do you think the wizard has anything on his hip?

Ajasiw?—Ain't Jonesey a sight in white?

Kagptwtst?—Know any good places where they still sell it?

Otitwiktbtoskmlag—On the level, if the wife knew I belonged to this outfit she's knock me for a goal.

Ithith—It isn't the heat, it's the humidity.

Whitwy?—Well, how's the world treating you?

Ljhmohk?—Let's have just one more, hey, Kookoo?

Nihet—No, I've had enough, thanks.

Aryit?—All right, if you insist.

Dyptobotofotobit?—Do you put the tar on before the feathers or the feathers on before the tar?

Ydlwbwlatassmrash — You'll die laffin, wizard, but I walked into a restaurant today and somebody stole my sheet, hood and rope.

Fmfi—Every man for himself.

Hbtgah—Hall, hall, the gang's all here.

AUNT HANNAH'S LESSON

"Somebody's got a new suit," cried Wilkinson. "You look as though you were starting on a wedding tour."

"My wife said I was looking too shabby to come to town," chuckled the out-of-town customer, "so I invested."

"My!" declared Wilkinson. "Turn around and let's see the back. Great! Now, if you aren't too stuck up, sit down and tell me all about things."

"Everything's jogging along about as per usual," said the out-of-town customer, "though in some spots I will say it's mighty slow. The bad fruit season makes a lot of difference, you know."

"We always hear a lot about the bad seasons," said Wilkinson. "I all here.

Omhar—Our motto: hit and run.

Iswhytotatimath?—I say, klansman, have you heard the one about the Irishman, the Negro, and the Hebrew?

Nito—Now I'll tell one.

Alahtmgys?—Ain't it awful how the moths get into your sheets?

Ofctel—Cheese it for the cops!

Yptlrl—You paid for the last round.

Blik—But I insist, kleegee.

Iytrbce—I'll play the red ball cross-corner.

Htfl—Hooray for the pope!

Cefpsgl—Our choice for president: Solomon Goldeblatter!

should think somebody might talk cheerfully about the good seasons. It hasn't been an awful bad season for you, or you wouldn't be flashing such classy garments on the innocent public."

"It isn't prosperity that makes me dress up," laughed the out-of-town customer, "though we became quite used to it, of course. The only thing we drew the line at was traveling with her. She thought it sinful waste to travel in good clothes that might be ruined by cinders and too conspicuous besides. She did not understand that she was more conspicuous in the sort of things she wore than she would have been in a red gown. Why, I remember that the umbrella she carried had no handle at all—she just carried it by the rod and did not mind a bit that it was all splintered and rough looking. Oh, she was a sight when she started out, I want to tell you."

"Your wife's Aunt Hannah must hold a very powerful big stick over her," said Wilkinson.

"Aunt Hannah has always been something of a peculiar character," explained the out-of-town customer. "She is rather erratic or eccentric, or whatever you call a wealthy woman who does just as she pleases, no matter what anybody else does. Her idea of clothes is quite amazing, though I have seen her dressed beautifully when she considered it worth while."

"Everybody is very fond of her, for she certainly is a dear soul, but there have been days when we have been somewhat embarrassed by her duds. She has no daughters, but her nieces are not exactly backward about suggesting little improvements in her wardrobe, especially the young nieces. The older ones have had some severe jolts trying to help her, as they call it, and they realize that it is no joke to get Aunt Hannah cross with them. She is very generous and they lose a lot of good times when she is temporarily out of patience with them."

"We used to stand around like that for, my grandmother," said Wilkinson. "One doesn't know what to do."

"We didn't," laughed the out-of-town customer, "though we became quite used to it, of course. The only thing we drew the line at was traveling with her. She thought it sinful waste to travel in good clothes that might be ruined by cinders and too conspicuous besides. She did not understand that she was more conspicuous in the sort of things she wore than she would have been in a red gown. Why, I remember that the umbrella she carried had no handle at all—she just carried it by the rod and did not mind a bit that it was all splintered and rough looking. Oh, she was a sight when she started out, I want to tell you."

"Well, it was because of all this that my wife insists that I must dress up a bit for the train," said the out-of-town customer. "But Aunt Hannah always gets a new suit when she travels now. She learned a lesson in a short hour or so that was more influential in making her change her ways than all the talking of the women folks all these years."

"For Pete's sake, what was it?" asked Wilkinson laughing. "Did they arrest her as a vagrant?"

"She had to wait in a station a good while for her train," said the out-of-town customer. "And she played with a little tot who sat next to her. The kid would bring her his toys and put them in her lap and talk to her about them, but by and by he got drowsy and fell sound asleep. It wasn't very long before she dozed herself, and it was some time before she woke. When she did she learned her lesson."

"Dreamed something, eh?" the out-of-town customer. "The child had put a battered tin cup in her lap and Aunt Hannah discovered to her horror, that passers-by had been dropping pennies in until it was nearly full."

Reliable Home Builders' Directory and Guide

Will your paint withstand next summer's sun and heat?

IT'S time to start thinking about this year's coat of paint. The sun will soon be getting in its work. Is your property protected against those blistering, burning rays? Or will rot and decay be able to creep through the blisters, cracks and bare spots?

Come to us for Patton's Sun-Proof Paint. It seals the surface with a hardy, long-wearing film that resists the most vicious attacks of the elements. It is exceedingly elastic—expands and contracts as the weather dictates. No cracking, blistering, peeling or flaking off. Wears wonderfully well and covers an unusually large surface per gallon.

We have it in all sizes of cans for your use. Also paints, varnishes and enamels for any work you want to do. Tell us about your job and we'll supply the proper paint.

FLOOR PLAN DENTISTOWN

FLOOR PLAN DENISON

There Would Be Real Home Happiness Within the walls of a Bungalow Like This

There is a particularly cozy effect to any well designed bungalow home. The one shown here is just one floor, therefore convenient, five large rooms, bath, two closets and roomy veranda.

The general lines of the "outside" are very artistic and graceful.

Talk over the possible cost of constructing this type of bungalow with a builder or architect, he may show you how easy it is to have your own home.

The above plans are furnished by the National Builders' Bureau, of which the Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber Co., 460 West Los Feliz Road, are the exclusive agents. The details and prices for the construction of any building which may appear on this page can be obtained from the Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber Company, free of charge, by anyone desiring the same.

Truths in Epigram

What disturbs us in this world is not trouble, but our opposition to it.—Maclaren.

The intellect of the wise, is like glass—it admits the light of heaven, and reflects it.—Hare.

AN OBJECTIONABLE FILM

A film purporting to portray the escape of Clara Phillips has been on exhibition, and, very properly, has been suppressed by the authorities. That any producer could have conceived the idea of making such a picture is evidence that there are men in the business not fit to be in it, and that if they continue, the demand for censorship will be revived, and probably made effective.

Critic the story of the escape have been set forth with due regard for accuracy, the matter might have presented a different aspect, but naturally the details had to be imaginary. Had there been an observant camera trained upon the exit made by the prisoner, its revelations probably would have been startling and useful. In all likelihood the camera would not have been focused on a roof across which pattered a woman in stocking feet, nor could it have shown her descending by a waterspout not equal to the task of sustaining half her weight. On the contrary it might have focused on a door carefully opened for her by a police attaché of the prison, who was familiar with the whole plan, and knew exactly how to point out to her the spot where the automobile awaited.

The suppressed picture of course made a heroine of the tigerish woman. Spectators who applauded were doing so out of sympathy with her. This exhibition of depraved judgment was not pleasing to observe. Moreover, the whole Phillips episode is a disgrace to the public, to the machinery of justice, to the system of treating felons. Inasmuch as the woman has gone, and seemingly has no intention of returning, the privilege of forgetting her and her triumph over the law, would be greatly appreciated.

TRUE TO FORM

A New York publisher who left a fortune of $3,000,000, provided by will that $50,000 of this sum be devoted to erection of a mausoleum for himself and widow. Within its marble walls, at which the public will gaze curiously or admiringly, perhaps he thought he could have sweeter sleep. People have their own notions touching these matters.

Perhaps the man will be charged with wastefulness, but this hardly could be just. He was merely running true to form. All his life he had been spectacular. He had been lavish in bestowal of diamond belts on muscled worthy pugilists, and he ever was ready to offer prizes and trophies for any sporting event. Provided always that his name, his photograph and the title of his paper appeared in relation to the event, not incidentally, but with heart-warming prominence. On such notoriety he thrived. It was satisfying to his mentality, and almost literally it was meat and drink and nauseous to him.

As to the charge that the sum set aside represents extravagance, details may be made with something of justice. The money will go to dealers in hiding material, to artists and designers, and to many forms of labor. Thus it will be found to serve a useful purpose. It will not be kept out of circulation, but on the contrary will be sent on its way to perform the countless missions in which cash is the essential regulation.

RIGHTS OF THE PRISONER

Recently a prisoner who had languished apparently forgotten in the county jail for 90 days, was taken before the judge, and the charge against him dismissed. He was not placed on trial. So far as revealed, there had been no intention of trying him. He had been locked up, and save that the public defender discovered and rescued him, might have stayed there indefinitely.

That the county jail is shamefully overcrowded is a circumstance for which responsibility will have to be shared by the whole community. The condition of the place would seem to be an argument for not confining there persons not held by due warrant, or for cause. The fact that a prisoner has constitutional rights sometimes is overlooked. By the terms defining one of these rights, he is entitled to speedy arraignment and trial. The idea that there is some majestic figure representing the law, that may place a suspected person in a cell at will, is quite as dead as belief in the divine authority of kings. In olden times a king could do this, and the subject might not be in oblivion, as indeed, frequently was the outcome.

The man charged with crime remains innocent until duly proved guilty. That he must be a prisoner, shut off from the chance to be vindicated, is a notion quite at variance not only with the constitution, but with the common perception of what liberty means in a free country.

THE OBSCURE TURK

Turks are described as "stullenly refusing concessions." If any surprise is excited by this, it is not at the refusal so much as at the boldness actuating it. That they would grant only under pressure all that they could be induced to grant, might have been taken in advance for granted. They have scant reason for holding in high regard any of the nations with whose representatives they are now in conference. There is absence of explicit assurance that any actor in the drama is doing more than play a part. The note of sincerity is lacking.

When the Greeks sallied out against the Turks they were, as now appears, encouraged by Premier George of England. After they had entered Turkish territory, as abundant evidence proves, they were guilty of outrages as gross as committed by the Turks. After they had met the armies of Islam, and been defeated, George continued to sound their praises. When they were chased pell mell out of Asia Minor, bringing a horde of Turks at their heels, all Europe was appalled, and there was instant, but vain endeavor to shift responsibility.

The Turk meets face to face with the Greek at the council table. He does not esteem the Greek, has no reason to believe him. He looks upon England as the backer of Greece in the futile but terrific foray. He observes that England and France manifest mutual signs of distrust. He knows that he is among enemies. He is not by nature mild or forgiving. He is likely to deem any conference promise hollow. Probably this estimate would be correct. Small wonder that he is sullen.

THE WRIGHT ACT ACTING

Some person devoted to the unrestricted flow of whisky, and shouting the battle cry of alcohol, voluntarily submitted to arrest as soon as the Wright act had gone into effect. Noble as this may be esteemed by his dusty-throated compatriots, it hardly was necessary. Abundant arrests, by no means voluntary on the part of those who felt the grip of authority, occurred at about the same time. These would have furnished a sufficient test, desire for which seems to have been the inspiration of the martyr-advocate of bootlegging.

In every large city of California raids on stocks of liquor began with the hour the Wright act became of force. The people of the state voted for this law, and by doing so indicated the desire that it be operative. They do not wish to have favorites played. They do not see that the person able to buy real liquor has any right superior to that of the poorest toper who ever poisoned himself on the stuff peddled through the dark alleys. They have been made indignant by the effrontery of purveyors of deadly drinks sold under false labels. They have viewed with genuine alarm the new set of criminals brought into being by a system of illegal traffic, featured by theft, perjury, bribery, forgery and here and there a murder. They condemned the liquor traffic as formerly conducted, and caused it to cease. They condemn even more strongly the traffic as continued. They want it stopped, feeling outraged not alone at its material and moral effect, but at the very insolence of it.

VENGEANCE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Vengeance is a natural product of the human mind. But it must be remembered that everything that is natural is not wholesome. For nature produces a good many things, simply as waste products to be gotten rid of; such, for instance, as fecal matter. And unless we get rid of poisons that naturally are formed in our systems they will kill us, such as the secretions of the sweat glands and the bladder.

One of the greatest poisons in the minds of both the individual and of the body politic is vengeance. Getting even with people is what makes revolutions destructive, bloody, and wasteful. Without that they might be constructive, progressive, and peaceful.

Vengeance and the lust for it was what added horror to the French Revolution, which in its essence was a normal and helpful movement.

Vengeance is what ails the industrial world at present. Labor leaders and capitalists trying to soothe their wounded vanity and offended egotism are what mess up the industrial problem.

Vengeance is the gist of the class war. It is the chief cause of violence in strikes, and of prolonging all negotiations for settlement.

There has been a vast deal of injustice in this world, and those who imagine that it is the duty of living men to punish those that have caused that injustice are sadly mistaken. Such punishment visited upon the authors of the crimes and their beneficiaries would wreck every business and upset every government existing.

If every thought of vengeance were carried out among individuals, about nine-tenths of the population would be dead or mutilated before night.

By far the best plan is to go ahead and forget it. It is written, "Vengeance is mine, I will avenge saith the Lord," and if there is any avenging to be done it is the part of good sense to let the Lord attend to it.

Doing a wrong to any one or committing any kind of a wrong deed never pays. But somehow and somewhere the wrongdoer will be attended to. But neither does vengeance pay. It is as futile, as wasteful, and as harmful as the original crime.

During the recent railroad strike, a cabinet officer said: "It only three or four of the railroad presidents would get it out of their heads that now is the time to get even with the unions we could settle this strike in a week."

THE RIGHT WORD
By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON
DISCUSSION CLUB.

"Either you or I are (7), Am (7), or Is (7)?" J. C. Allen: "I wonder whether I may presume on your good nature to the extent of asking your opinion on Mr. Vithelly's rule as it appears on page 71 of 'A Desk-Book of Errors in English'."

"Either you or I are (am or is) right? Which should it be? You are; I am; which of the two? The complete sentence is clearly 'Either you (are right) or I (am right)'. If the pronoun had been coupled, as in 'Both you and I' the plural verb would of course follow; but the very fact of this would seem to indicate that where they are distinctly disjoined, as here, the verb should not be plural and should therefore be singular. Yet who could say 'Either you or I am right'? Peculiar as it is—it is being impossible to say either 'You is' or 'I is' the solution is to be found in the use of is; and the correct rendering is, 'Either you or I—one of us—is right.'"

"I have always understood that the following are correct: 'Either you or I am right'; 'Either he or she is right'; 'Either he or she is right.' When two singular subjects are used, the verb should agree with the substantive immediately preceding the verb. When a singular and a plural subject are used, the plural subject should immediately precede the verb, and the verb should be plural—except when the plural subject is in the second person (you), when you should be placed first; in which case the verb should be singular, to agree with the singular subject; as, 'Either you or I am right.'"

Mr. Nicholson:

J. C. Allen's reasoning is in accord with that of many grammarians, but usage differs and the solution of the problem is subject to personal opinions. But why be tossed about by a French-erous rhapsody when you can sail gracefully over smooth water? Why not say any one of the following: Either you are right, or I am; Either you or I must be right; Either he is right, or they are; Either he or they must be right?

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

It is the Christmas season. And we usually reckon the Christmas season by the calendar. About two weeks from the middle of December to the first of the new year.

Then the spirit begins to bubble up. There are friendly thoughts of many persons. Brothers and sisters and sons and daughters and cousins and aunts and friends and neighbors. The air is filled with greetings. There are smiles and handshakes and good wishes.

Something has happened within us. The best of ourselves has come to the top. The trials and frets and worries are laid away for the time being as far as possible. It is Christmas. And Christmas is a time for friendliness and gladness and good cheer.

The world is lighted with fine sentiment. The love that the Master taught is over us and through us and among us. We look about for those to be cheered. For friendly things to do. For needy souls to be helped. For sadness to be gladdened.

Christmas time. Lasting usually about two weeks by the calendar. Gifts and greetings and trees and candles and telegrams and letters and holly and red berries and warm hearts and the things that go with light and joy and gladness. Good indeed.

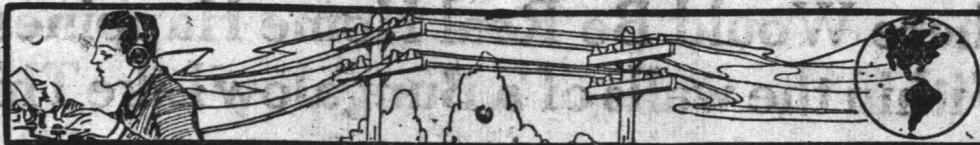

There is a spirit of forgiveness of sins. Of deliverance from evil. Of a softened judgment. Of tender hearts and bright eyes and willing hands.

It proves what the human being is when his spirit is awakened. No man would wish his neighbor evil. It is Christmas time. No person would withhold friendliness. It is Christmas time!

So we learn that it is possible for people to dwell together in unity. In friendliness. With generosity and happiness. Because some intangible spirit has inspired and lighted and uplifted us.

If it were only possible to get that spirit into our souls so that it might never get out again. If it were possible only for the world of men and women to have that divine spirit through all the year. The same friendliness. The same tolerance. The same kindness. The same understanding.

Not a perpetual round of gifts. But an undiminished flow of friendliness. A constant outpouring of loving service. Not within families alone. But within the great family of all of us who live together in the city. In the state. In the nation. In the world. That would be Christmas indeed.

POINTERS FOR FOLKS WHO CRAVE LOVE

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDEY

The desire for love is almost as universal as the need of oxygen.

In spite of this universal craving the person who can win and keep love is a rare avis. Most of us pass through life accompanied by a procession of men and women who seem at a casual glance to be worth loving. Many of them are; but they will not permit love to fasten on them. They kill it with petty annoyances, annoy it with jealousy, repel it through disgust or so annoy it in one or another petty fashion that it departs in self defense.

For example, I know a man who lost his wife because he seemed unable to leave off a trivial habit that wounded and hurt her. He was immensely powerful and took unbounded pride in the display of his strength. When he was first married he began thumping his little wife on the knuckles with his middle finger. He would double it under his thumb and let it drive with a force that hurt her cruelly. Time and again she objected. She explained that the habit not only annoyed her, but actually gave her pain and repeatedly she showed him her bruised hands. But he persisted with a dogged stubbornness in the silly habit. Finally she lost patience and a coolness grew up between them. Even this did not cure him. He persisted in his thumping every time he found her even a little relaxed toward him. In the end a bitter quarrel divided them. She found a husband who was not so stubborn and he unjustly felt himself aggrieved. The end was divorce.

Another couple of my acquaintance were divorced because the husband insisted in turning back the ends of his wife's fingers. Her hands were very sensitive and the habit maddened her. He would not give it up and she would not endure it.

In the same class with these people we must place the men and women who pinch each other supposedly in play, but in reality violently enough to cause pain, those who grasp the arms or bodies of members of the family every time they can reach them, people who talk into your face regardless of bad breath and the evident distaste of their hearers for close contact.

Then there are the habitual snifflers and snorters, women with high pitched voices who come to a standstill and converse, the advocates of unlimited arguments.

Almost any average love can survive tragedy, but only the grand passion can stand survive annoyance persistently applied. Even that gives down by and by as a porphyry cliff will give down under erosion.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

ONE NICE LITTLE WOMAN

[Chicago Evening Post] Women are indeed hard to please. When a man says of one of their number: "She is a nice little woman," he feels that he is paying her the best sort of compliment. As a general thing the woman so designated accepts the speaker as a complimenter. She may realize that the speaker is needlessly condescending in manner, but she knows he means well and gives him credit for his amiable intentions. No normally constituted woman will quibble over anything in the form of praise.

One woman has come to the front, however, who resents being called a nice little woman. This is Mrs. Annie Dicksey Olson, defeated democratic candidate for senator in Minnesota. She says if somebody had not said of her: "She is a nice little woman," but cannot win the election, and if she says she is sure she might have had at least 100,000 more votes.

Mrs. Olson is a nice little woman in all respects, according to account, but though she does not go into particulars, she undoubtedly knew that when this phrase got into circulation not less than 100,000 voters at once thought of her as admirably qualified for domestic life, but not equipped to be a United States senator. For how could a nice little woman who was of course fitted for home life represent Minnesota in the senate? And so they voted against her, not, as they would probably say, for lack of appreciation, but out of the sincerest regard for her true spirit. And it's such unexpected impediments as these that women are likely to meet with in their commendable efforts to purify politics.

They are trying to tell the public that Lenin is fatally ill again, but the effort falls flat. Nobody believes the report, and nobody cares, anyhow.

Blackfeet Indians, cold and starving, get no consolation whatever from the printed assurances that they are being cared for tenderly. When a man offers his own glands for sale, he may be strong in body, but under his ivory dome there is a vacuum.

There is some talk of prosecuting a woman for having killed her husband. Apparently a widow has no rights.

Of course, the opposition to confirmation of Justice Butler came to nothing, but a noisy little senatorial bunch had the fun of opposing.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Many are the rules given for retention of youth and health. Most of them doubtless would be found worthless were they to be tried. The law of conduct that builds one to robust strength, might be destructive to another. If the individual does not have the native intelligence to know what the system needs, it is quite useless to seek to impart information. The information probably would not fit his case anyhow. One set of these rules recently circulated, advocates the eating of raw vegetables. There are certain garden growths that may be consumed in a raw state. The great majority of vegetables that enter into the ordinary bill of fare are not fit to be eaten uncooked. Not only would they be unpalatable, but they could not be digested save by the individual stomachs of the ostrich. Chewing raw beans, peas, potatoes, beets, sprouts, artichokes—not to continue the list indefinitely—would be silly and suicidal. Anybody who wants this sort of diet is disputing with the worthy cow or the pig that grunts.

Another common bit of advice is to eat as little as possible. The hungry school children over whose gaunt and hollow frames the public is worrying, follow this counsel. It is not good for them. It is no good for anybody. Food is provided by generous nature to be eaten, and the body is equipped with apparatus to extract the nutriment from it. The virtue of starvation is a curious bit of imagination.

Search for the meanest man is an impossible quest. No sooner does he seem to have been found than a rival appears. There are human creatures who steal Christmas offerings gathered for the poor, and for crippled children. Many would be inclined to rate them as most acutely obnoxious.

Appears the man who failed to get a job of hauling Christmas mail. Angered, he pours a destructive chemical into mail boxes, destroying tokens of remembrance sent from friend to friend. Just at present this creature perhaps has a lead over rivals for the position of meanest.

Los Angeles police detectives presented a fine gold watch to a reporter who had served long among them without having broken faith either with them or his paper. There are lots of such reporters, but they are not invariably appreciated.

The coroner's jury said that a Mrs. Bloss, who had shot her husband to death, was justifiable in the act. This was extremely courteous of the jury, but not convincing. It is comparatively seldom that fact is a murder. When a husband and wife fail to agree, there are methods of discontinuing the association without violence and even without scandal.

It seems to be the purpose of the state to place the woman on trial despite the kindness of the coroner's jury. The plan is in accord with the law as written, but nothing is likely to come of it but a costly trial with the concomitant of sob-stuff. Apparently it is impossible to convict a woman.

There is a vigorous fight upon the whole traffic in forbidden drugs. The federal government is taking part in it, and cities in which the drug addict is common, are concentrating their police power against the evil.

This is a matter in which the criminal dealer should be given no mercy. Prison for him, a long term at that, and if he is killed resisting arrest, so much the better.

Shipbuilding is reported to show a decided slump. In the circumstances such showing must be regarded as inevitable. The government has a lot of ships that it would be glad to dispose of to be used as merchant marine. It is unable to dispose of them because without a subsidy the sustaining of an American merchant marine would be impossible.

It would be strange if shipbuilders were to continue to put their capital in bottoms to float daily in the docks.

James Willard Shultz, who for years lived among Indians as a tribal member, says that the Blackfeet are starving. Those who are familiar with Mr. Shultz, and are aware of this experience, know that his statement is exact, and that the Blackfeet are starving.

Recently a mother made public offer to dispose of her baby to the highest bidder. Her excuse was that there were three other children in the family, and that the fourth was too great a burden. Such an offer is repugnant. It breathes no spirit of motherhood. It creates an instant prejudice. It could not have been the inspiration of love.

Circumstances easily might be imagined in which a mother would part with her baby with tears and regrets but not for cash. The separation could have no proper motive but the good of the child. It could not be a matter of better and sale. This mother wants a price. That is unseemly and unnatural.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

The old watchmaker gave me an idea to chew on this morning. I went in, as I do every six months, to present to him my wrist watch half hidden in a bevy of glowing phrases. I tell him how thoroughly no good that wrist watch is, and suggest that if the Vigilantes were on the job nowadays they would give him hours in which to get out of town for having sold such a watch to a leading citizen.

"This modern stuff is no good, anyhow," I say, fretfully, thereby convicting myself of being older than I ought to be.

"You're rummy," said the old watchmaker this morning. "You haven't a brain in your head. Listen to me."

Whereupon I did for the first time since he sold me that ticking monstrosity I wear on my wrist. He said that people spend half a dollar twice a year to keep a watch in good condition and think they are being grievously wronged. Whereas, he said, the same people throw away dollars in other directions and think nothing of it. He said there should be a class in economy in every school.

"Better still," he said, "a class to teach people how to spend money."

Most of us, he said, do not get the money's worth out of our money. We buy cheap things and when they wear out or break down we throw them away without a pang. If we had spent twice or three times as much we might have bought something that would last. Five years ago, he said, he spent more money than he had ever thought possible for a business suit. He has worn it almost every day since and it still is presentable after a sponging and pressing.

"My boy has worked alongside me on the bench," he said, "and in that same period has bought half a dozen suits or more. He has never looked as well dressed as I do because his suits were of mediocre quality and cut. Yet he has spent three times as much money on his clothes. You paid me good money for a good watch and got good value. Yet you waste because it needs cleaning occasionally. That is bad economy. It pays to keep things in order, just as it pays to buy good things to begin with."

I thought of passing that philosophy on to my wife. But maybe I had better not. Her clothes cost enough now.

More Than a Half Billion Dollars Annually from California's Natural Resources

California has a large area in the Sierra Nevada Mountains, much of it more than a mile above the sea. The towering mountains are vast storehouses of mineral wealth. Their streams provide enormous power.

way for the development of large amounts of additional power.

On their slopes stand billions of feet of timber and some of the trees are older than any other living thing. And dotted over California's surface are oil wells which pour out millions of barrels of "black gold" every month. Such is the natural wealth of this great commonwealth.

How You Can Serve Your State

This advertisement is one of a series of three, the first devoted to telling of California's agricultural wealth, the second to California's natural resources, and the third to California's industries. These are facts of which you can well be proud.

Beautiful booklets and descriptive literature about California have been prepared by such organizations as Californians, Inc., San Francisco, by the All-Year Club of Southern California, Los Angeles, and by the San Diego-California Club, San Diego.

There are thousands of people in other states who have no conception of California's greatness. Some of them are your friends. Help us tell them.

If you will send to the Southern Pacific Company, a list of the names and addresses of your friends, living elsewhere, whom you would like to have receive this series of advertisements as well as the California literature prepared by these organizations, which have for their sole purpose the advertising of California, we will see that your friends get this California literature.

Your Own Community

Note the map which shows where your town is located. Your friends will be glad to know. The list of names you send us will be turned over to your own Chamber of Commerce or other civic organization, and literature will be sent to your friends and kinsmen telling them interesting facts about your own particular community.

Simply attach your list to the coupon below and send it to us—no obligation on your part. Do it today before you forget. In this way you will help to spread this message of California's greatness throughout the land and perform a valuable service not only to your State but to yourself and to your community.

California's Principal Minerals

In the days of '49 California became known as the "Golden State." She still leads in the production of gold, which is produced in thirty-two counties and exists in others. Last year the production of gold in California reached $15,800,000.

But now many other minerals take their place with gold as sources of the State's wealth. More than one-fourth of the nation's output of petroleum last year came from California. Its value was $182,400,000.

More plebeian, but contributing largely to our wealth, were brick, cement, building stone and crushed rock, which aggregated $27,000,000.

And in lesser quantities we find that California's mineral production included also silver, copper, lead, zinc, quicksilver, platinum, natural gas, magnesite, salines, including borax, potash, salt and soda, and miscellaneous industrial minerals. California has the largest iron ore deposits west of the Missouri River.

The total value of all these products taken from California's natural storehouses last year was $244,856,910.

Valuable Timber Resources

To the great wealth of minerals which California's bounty provides must be added $90,000,000 for the lumber cut annually.

Great forests of white, yellow and sugar pine and fir sweep southward from the northern boundaries of the State to the San Jacinto Range. In the Coast Range are great forests of redwood.

California contains twenty National Forests, whose total area is more than 24,000,000 acres.

It is estimated that these National Forests contain 120,000,000,000 board feet of standing timber, mostly pine, redwood, fir and cedar. The value of this timber is $250,000,000.

Water Power

And finally are tremendous and valuable resources in water power, partly developed and partly undeveloped.

It is estimated that there is available about 5,000,000 horsepower in California. This figure includes only the power which is now looked upon as practical—power which may be obtained by the type of plants which is now being installed.

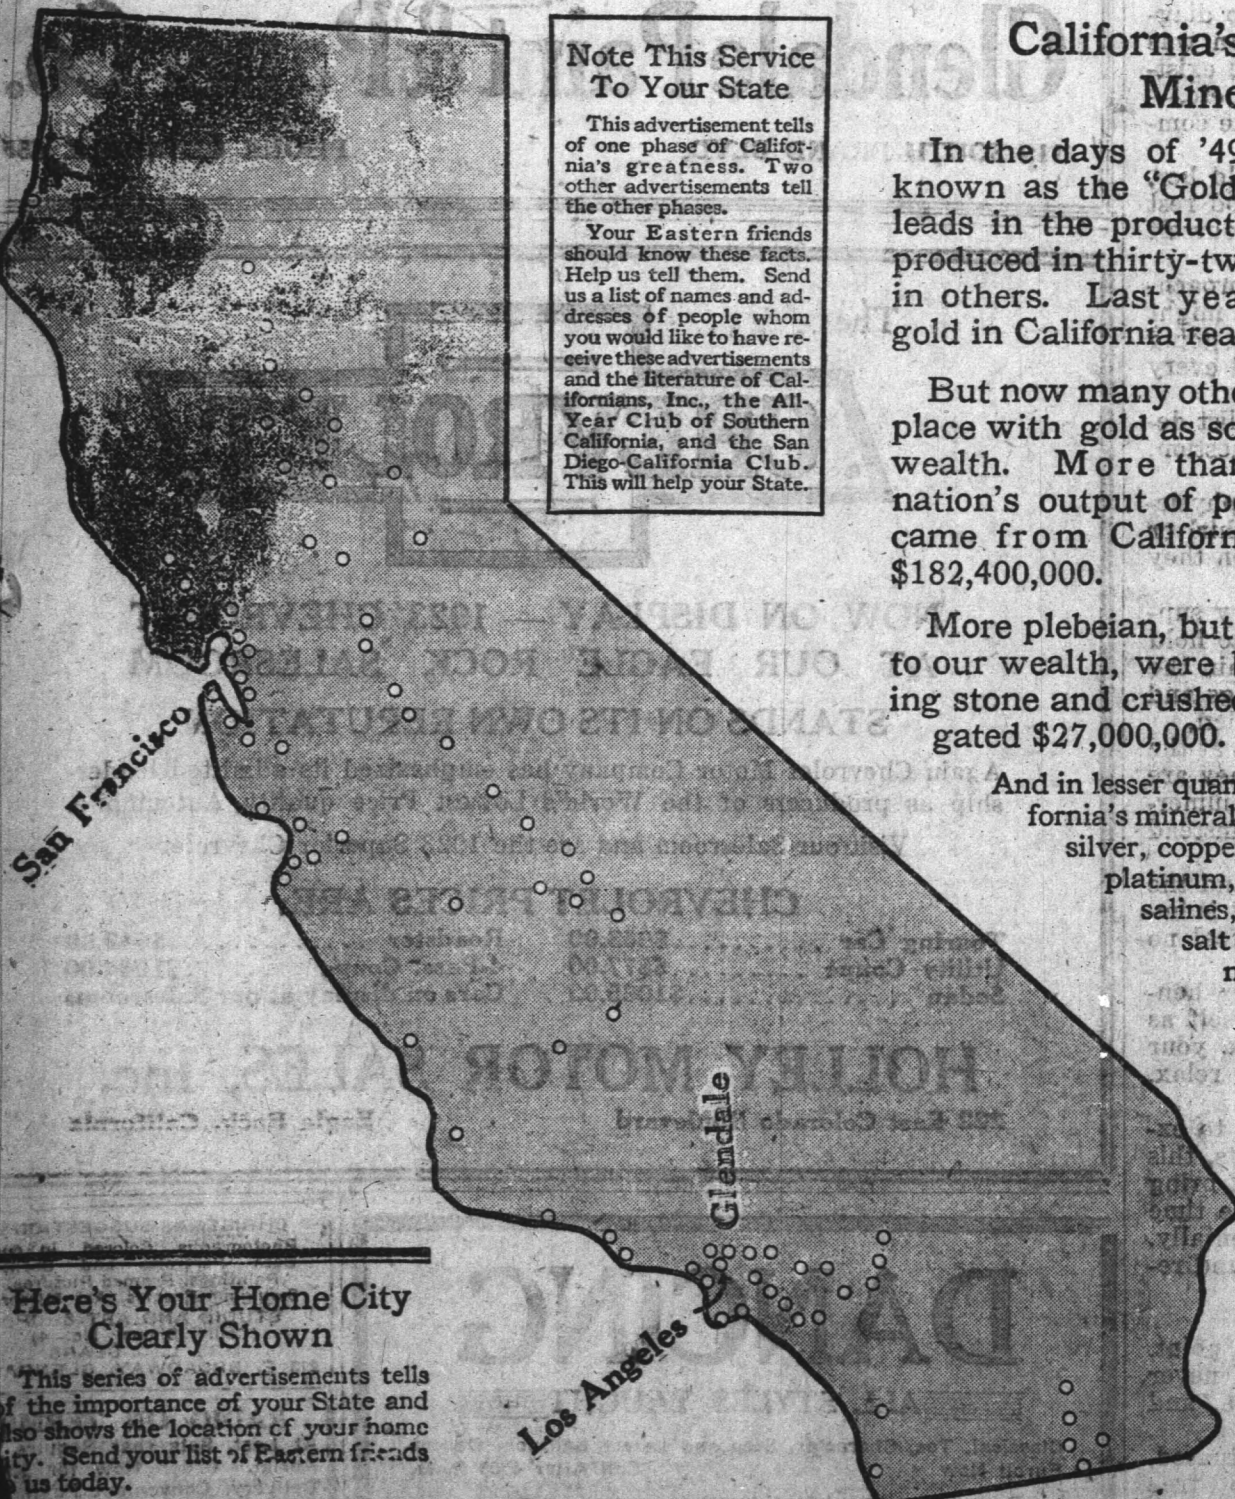

About 1,250,000 horsepower has already been developed in the State and plans are now under

JAPANESE MAY AGAIN SEEK EQUALITY

TOKYO, (By Mail).—Japan may go to the mat with the United States next year—diplomatically speaking—in insisting upon American recognition of Japanese racial equality.

No official policy has been formulated, but some newspapers and politicians are making quite a clamor and demanding that Japan make the strongest representations to America for recognition of racial equality.

No official policy has been formulated, but some newspapers and politicians are making quite a clamor and demanding that Japan make the strongest representations to America for recognition of racial equality.

They regret the U. S. Supreme Court decision in the Ozawa case that a Japanese is not a white person. But they are not hot under the collar about it—as some of the politicians and newspapers are.

The U. S. Supreme Court decision in the Ozawa case, that Japanese, not being white persons, cannot become American citizens was received calmly but regretfully by the leading newspapers.

The sensational papers called it an insult and an outrage.

"There can never be permanent world peace unless the principle of world-wide racial equality is first established," said Representative Mochizuki, discussing his campaign urging Japan to take this question up with America in the new commercial treaty next year.

The "Yorodzu," a jingoistic Tokyo newspaper, printed there are more non-white people than whites on earth, and a combination of all the colored forces can whip the whites. It warned the western peoples that they must "rid themselves of the erroneous idea that the white race is superior to the colored races" and predicted "a serious conflict between the white and colored peoples of the world."

A comment typical of the leading influential papers and of the well-informed portion of the public was that of the Tokyo Nichi Nichi. It reviewed the Ozawa case and its issues dispassionately, expressed the conviction that the integrity, character and accomplishments of any people, and not the color of their skin, should be the test of merit, and concluded:

"But it is entirely within the powers of America to give or deny the right of citizenship to the Japanese. America has decided not to give it, and there is no help for it. But we hope that when the American people come to have a better understanding of the national traits of the Japanese they will give the rights unsolicited. We can quietly await the arrival of such a time."

A well-dressed peddler cautiously made his way into the manager's office, and coughed to call attention to himself.

"Well," said the manager, "what do you want?"

"I am introducing," the peddler began, "an automatic electric hairbrush."

"Can't you see I'm bald?" growled the manager.

"Your wife, perhaps—"

"She's bald, too, except when she's dressed up."

"Perhaps your son, sir?"

"He's one month old and quite bald."

"Quite so," said the peddler. "Have you a dog?"

"Yes, a Chinese hairless poodle." The peddler dived into another pocket.

"Allow me," he said, "to show you the latest thing in flypaper."

William was thirsty for knowledge, and interesting facts shone like jewels in his brain.

"I read today," he said to Michael, "of the wonderful progress made in aviation. Men can now do anything—absolutely anything—a bird can do!"

But Michael was tired of wonders—he was more matter-of-fact.

"Is that so?" he answered. "Well when you see an airman fast asleep hanging on to a branch of a tree with one foot, I'll come and have a look!"

OPEN EVENINGS

OUTSTANDING B. B. EVENTS IN 1922

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Babe Ruth's collapse as the champion swatter and the dismal rout of the New York Yankees in the world's series were the outstanding events in 1922 baseball.

General prosperity was reported in most of the major and minor league clubs, although some of the eastern teams in the major league did not profit as they did in 1921.

Miserable weather in the early part of the season had much to do with it, and there is no doubt that the absence of Babe Ruth during the time he was under suspension hurt the American League.

From a National League standpoint, the world's series was a great success, inasmuch as it was such a glorious victory for the Giants, who were looked upon as easy meat for the Yanks by most of the experts.

For the business offices of the two clubs the series was a big bust and both teams lost money. The receipts of the tie game, approximately $121,000, were turned over to charity by Commissioner Landis and it was one of the best days of the series.

While it was a heavy loss to the clubs, the action of Landis was one of the best things that could have been done for baseball, as it stopped a lot of talk about commercialization of the series.

In reviewing the work on the diamond in the last season, familiar faces will be found in most of the honor places.

The champion batter of the National League was Rogers Hornsby, the great star of the St. Louis Cardinals, who batted .4013. Another great St. Louisan, George Sisler, the star first baseman of the Browns, again led the American League hitters with an average of .419.

Hornsby gained further laurels by becoming the home run king of the "big time," with a total of 42.

Kenneth Williams, a third noble of St. Louis, grabbed the homer title in the American League with a total of 39.

The Babe got himself 25, which was doing quite well, considering the handicap placed on him by his suspension.

While the rise of youngsters began to be asserted in the National League pitching department, the veterans did well, especially in the American League.

In average runs allowed per game, young "Rosey" Ryan of the Giants was the best pitcher in the National League. He allowed only three runs per game. Pete Donahue, another youngster with the Cincinnati Reds, led the league in games won and lost with eighteen victories out of twenty-seven games.

"Old Red" Faber, who is rather addicted to the habit, was the most effective pitcher in the American League. He allowed an average of only 2.31 runs a game. Joe Bush, another old man of the pastime, led the league in games won and lost with twenty-six victories out of thirty-three games.

Southpaws predominated in the National League in one respect. The three leading pitchers in the number of games won were Cooper, Rixey and Reuther. Cooper won twenty-seven games; Rixey 25 and Reuther 21. No trio of right handers could come near the mark.

The leaders among the fielders were:
First base—Judge, Senators; McInnis, Indians, and Daubert, Reds.
Second base—Collins, White Sox; Hornsby, Cards.
Third base—Jones, Detroit; Groh, Giants.
Shortstop—Scott, Yanks; Hollocher, Cubs.
Outfielders—Speaker, Cleveland; Veach and Cobb, Detroit; Wheat, Robins; Powell, Braves and Muesel, Giants.
Catchers—Schalk, White Sox; Henline, Phils.

DO YOU REALLY REST?
By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

There are many people—far too many—who know as little about the fine art of resting as did the young woman who consulted a nerve specialist because of persistent symptoms of headache, indigestion and semi-exhaustion for which her family physician could find no adequate cause.

Neither did the nerve specialist find adequate cause for them in any condition of bodily disease. With the aid of an oculist, an orthopedist, an X-ray photographer and other collaborators in the making of a group diagnosis, he satisfied himself that the young woman was free from organic ailments. Also she denied the existence of psychic causes—worry, fear, jealousy, etc.—which might account for the troubles of which she complained.

"It may very well be," the specialist then told her, "that all that you need is to give yourself a good rest every day. You probably are over-fatiguing yourself without knowing it."

"I am sure that is not so," was his patient's reproachful response. "For I have myself thought that I might have been overdoing, and for weeks I have been going to bed early, besides giving myself a rest period every afternoon."

"Have you really rested, though?" the specialist demanded. Then, by way of explanation of his question, he quickly went on:

"Really to rest one must relax mentally and physically. It will not do to keep one's mind in a whirl or one's body tense. Yet this is what many do when they undertake to rest."

"Lying down, they do not even let the pillow support their head. They strain their neck muscles to hold up their head on the pillow. Similarly they strain the trunk, leg, and arm muscles, as though the springs and mattress of the bed could not support them unaided."

"And their poor mind! How busy they keep it at the time when they fool themselves into imagining they are resting. All over the world their mind races, innumerable are the themes with which it occupies itself, instead of being given the momentary holiday it needs."

"This, I will venture to say, is your plight. And the sooner you learn that resting means relaxing and is impossible without relaxing, the sooner you will feel no need of seeking a physician's aid."

"To train yourself to relax make it a point, whenever you sit down or lie down, to think of yourself as relaxed. Mentally command, in turn, your neck, your shoulders, your arms, your back, your legs, to relax. Picture them to yourself as relaxed."

"In accordance with the law that ideas tend to express themselves in appropriate bodily movements, this systematic thinking of your body as relaxed will bring about the desired bodily relaxation. At the same time you will become more and more quiescent mentally. Then you will rest in a way that truly refreshes and re-invigorates you."

"Try this and report the result."

The report, in a letter, was terse and to the point. "I am gaining every day," was its substance. "I never appreciated before how beneficial rest could be, and how little I really knew about resting."

The world abounds in people similarly situated, people who need only adopt a similar course to free themselves from a semi-invalidism which has fastened upon them chiefly because they have failed really to rest.

IOWANS CALLED TO DINE AT UNION LEAGUE CLUB

Annual Reunion Is Scheduled for Big Event

Former residents of the Hawkeye state will hold their annual dinner reunion in the Union League club this year Thursday evening, the 28th. The dinner will be served promptly at 7 o'clock but will be preceded by the social hour and followed by a jolly program of songs and addresses. President A. B. Shaw will have several new features and Prof. J. B. Trowbridge will supply solo numbers and will lead in the community songs. Col. John J. Steadman and Judge Charles S. Crail will be among the speakers. All the Hawkeyes, resident and visiting, will be welcomed but reservations must be made in advance through the secretary, C. H. Parsons, 10251, at the Continental National bank by Wednesday morning, the 27th.

Paul Revere Pottery
Small bowls and low dishes of Paul Revere pottery in soft shades
of slate blue are pretty and inexpensive.

The late Henry Waterson, who was fond of sojourning at watering places, was one winter spending some time at Joseph Pulitzer's marble palace near Monte Carlo. He was sitting on the sun-drenched terrace when a group of glib-haired old ladies passed. When they were safely out of hearing Mr. Waterson remarked: "Figures don't lie, but these new-fangled corsets keep them from telling the whole truth."

Coat Dress of Gray Kasha
An extremely smart coat dress of gray kasha is closely covered with a school design in soutache braid stitched with silver. A scalloped band of moleskin outlines a bateau neckline and finishes the hem of the skirt and the sleeves.
